HOW IT GOT STARTED

The Bernard Osher Foundation (osherfoundation.org), a San Francisco-based philanthropic organization dedicated to supporting higher education and the arts, has provided funding to institutions of higher education to develop and grow non-credit courses, volunteer opportunities, and events that promote social interaction for older adults since 2002. At present, the Osher Foundation supports over 126 OLLIs on university and college campuses in all 50 states, as well as a National Resource Center for the various Institutes at Northwestern University in Chicago.

In 2007, Coastal Carolina University's Division of Academic Outreach was awarded an initial grant to initiate OLLI@CCU. Over time, the University has received two other major grants that have secured a substantial endowment for OLLI@CCU, ensuring its future as part of the University's community outreach and the institute's mission to provide high quality lifelong learning opportunities.

WHAT WE OFFER

OLLI@CCU offers a wide range of courses in the fall, spring, and summer. We also sponsor clubs (e.g., bridge club, book club, gardening club), offer excursions (e.g., a “Spy Tour” to Washington, D.C.), and volunteer opportunities. We also are the sponsor or co-sponsor of events and lecture series on the campus of the University (e.g., the Latin American Film Series, Fall 2021).

VOLUNTEERING

Volunteers are the heart and soul of OLLI programs. By volunteering, you not only provide the resources that ensure the OLLI program works well but also gain a real sense of belonging to the larger community. Volunteering also allows you to meet new people and form lasting relationships as you give back to an organization and a community of people that we hope become a meaningful part of your life. We hope all members will find a way to contribute to OLLI@CCU’s commitment to lifelong learning.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

COMMITTEE SERVICE

- Outreach committee - The members of this committee are essential in OLLI’s efforts to reach out to the community about OLLI opportunities and to find new members.
- Special Event Planning - OLLI is a multi-faceted program, which includes offering opportunities to socialize with other members, staff, and faculty. One way we make this possible is by hosting special events that bring everyone together (e.g., CCU football game tailgates, ice cream socials, trivia nights). Committee members help plan and execute these events.
- Excursions - OLLI members love to travel together to places near and far to enhance their insights into courses that are being offered and to become acquainted with the bountiful natural and historical resources of our region. Members of this committee will help in the planning and logistics of such joyful opportunities of travel and exploration.
- Core Programming - Our members play a key role in deciding upon the courses offered to our learning community. Members of this committee will help in determining the interest of our students, in reviewing the course offerings, and offering guidance about the most effective way to bring new learning opportunities to OLLI members.
- Fundraising - Like all nonprofit organizations, OLLI depends on donations to thrive and grow. We need volunteers that have fun and exciting ideas about how to encourage donations.
- Marketing - How do we get the word out about this wonderful opportunity? We need volunteers to offer their insights about the various ways we might market OLLI as well as help with writing scripts and contacting marketing outlets.

OFFICE ASSISTANCE AND GREETING VISITORS

The OLLI office tends to be a busy place. If you would like to help with various office tasks as well as welcoming visitors, this may be the right volunteer opportunity for you. You would not be expected to make a full-time commitment, but whatever amount of time you could be available during the week would be welcomed.

NEWSLETTER

Staying in touch with our members and the community at large is a vital task. If you enjoy writing and editing, this may be the ideal volunteer opportunity.

COFFEE, TEA, AND SNACKS

Our OLLI space will include a lounge for members, and we would like to have coffee, tea, and snacks available. It would be great to have volunteers oversee this part of our OLLI endeavors.

VOLUNTEER TODAY!

If you would like to volunteer, send us an email olli@coastal.edu or call 843-349-4016. We will send you a form via email or mail.

The Book of Revelation's seemingly impenetrable narrative and eccentric imagery have been chained to a wild array of End Time notions. That cottage industry, however, ignores one of this book's major rhetorical roots: a replacement theology by which the resurrected Jesus is leveraged onto the throne of a demoted God. You will be presented with and have ample opportunity to discuss multi-layered evidence (the sights, sounds, even a touch of Greek syntax) for a strategy that runs the rich gamut of apocalyptic technique. Bring a Bible, your thoughts, and respect for the views of others.

This course will cover the principle phases of the Islamic conquests and the different dynasties that ruled from Damascus (Syria), Baghdad (Iraq), Cordoba (Spain), Cairo (Egypt), and finally Istanbul (Turkey). This course will cover problems in philosophical theology, including the nature of God, arguments for God's existence, the problem of evil, and the relationship between faith and reason. Our central question will be: does God exist? For our purposes, God is to be understood as a being that is omniscient, omnipresent, omnibenevolent, omnipotent, creator of the universe and worthy of worship. The view according to which such a being exists is called theism. The focus of this course will be on arguments for and against theism. (Note: While some religions are consistent with theism, theism is more general than any particular religion. Arguments for/against theism, therefore, are not necessarily arguments for the truth/falsity of a particular religion. Hence, even though this course will cover issues that are connected with various religions, it is not a study of religion).

The Renaissance, a Global Phenomenon, examines an ancient pagan past that meets with the expanding influence of Islam to propel Christian societies of Renaissance Europe towards new artistic heights and to the other side of the unknown ocean. From syncretism within the colonial art of the Americas to China and West African art, we look at early global exchange connecting creative expression with innovation and desperation. Images of our present emerge as the pioneering technologies of warfare and capitalism meet at the confluence of a public health crisis, setting in motion human ingenuity that continues to influence the cutting-edge technology of our world today, from NFTs and cryptocurrency to top-secret microbes.

Students will feel inspired through a learning process that will expand the lens through which we view reality by pulling in the artworks, ideas, and beliefs of the overlooked and oft-forgotten. In this course, we will experience new ways of thinking about the Renaissance through exploring Colonial Latin America, Islam, West Africa, and China.

Over the years, traditions and various 'scholarly' and cultural influences (not dissimilar to Western practices) have led to a diminished and somewhat 'inferior' status of women in the Islamic world.

This class will explain the basic Islamic principles, the roles and responsibilities of women through 14 centuries of Islam with specific examples of women who played a major role and made considerable contributions to the political, social and educational public life.

We will conclude with a look at the present situation throughout the Islamic World, also with specific examples of modern days Muslim women.

Zoom Online Course

Times: 9:30 -10:45 A.M.

Instructor: Craig Miller

The "messiah idea" limited to spiritual rehabilitation constrains a dynamic concept whose variety and variability you'll explore in this course. Using evidence from the Hebrew Scriptures (Old Testament) and the New Testament, you'll encounter traits defining a messiah that are repeatedly modified by social situation and viewpoint--creating messianic agendas more than a consistent messianic age. You'll also delve into the (at times unexpected) bridging that transitions this ancient Judaic concept into a first century world. Bring a Bible, your thoughts, and respect for the views of others.
